MONARCH BIOIMPLANTS

CHITOSAN-BASED MEDICAL DEVICES

Monarch Bioimplants has developed a neurovascular and muscle shield with proven efficacy in every clinical pilot study.

The shield is an ultra-thin, flexible membrane, applied during surgery, that reduces in more than half the impotency and incontinence probability rates among prostate cancer patients.

> "Fast Track team has been excellent since day one. It was immediately clear to us that we were dealing with true professionals, completely committed with the project"

CHOOSING THE RIGHT VC

"A good idea is not enough. We wanted a VC that knew what to do with our idea; that knew how to make it work, how to sell it. We met lots of VC that just wanted to throw their money at us and nothing else, hoping to get back a few years later and find a sucessful company. That's not for us, we want a truly creative and committed partner."

FIRST CONTACT WITH FAST TRACK

"I've known Ruben Dias [Fast Track's CEO & Founder] for a few years now. After knowing about Fast Track's existence, I called him on the phone and immediately pitched our idea. Ruben told me to register on the site and apply. We were just gettting my first trial results, so a VC that could get the wheels moving was crucial."

> "We now meet monthly to discuss the project and frequently exchange emails"

THE APPLYING PROCESS

"It's democratic. It's open to all and has a very simple applying process. It was clear we were dealing with true professionals, completely committed in helping all candidates. They immediately criticized our pitch, threw ideas; so even before we get the funding they were already important for our success."

BEYOND FUNDING

"The funding was our first big victory. We now meet monthly to discuss how the project is evolving and frequently exchange emails. We value dearly this "outside" vision, because sometimes we are so deep inside our work that we fail to see other perspectives. This way we can focus on what we do best and leave the market strategy for the Fast Track experts."
